

JOIN Midwifery at McMaster

"One thing I love about midwifery is the ability to develop unique relationships with pregnant people and their families. Supporting them through a significant milestone is a very special experience."

— Mary Ajenifuja (Class of 2020)

The Midwifery Education Program at McMaster University is committed to developing and promoting equity, diversity, and inclusion in every facet of the program. We affirm our responsibility to foster an anti-oppressive environment, not only within the program, but also within the wider community.
