

Coming from a previous degree, the care and passion the faculty have for the students and the program is unmatched. Within the first two weeks, I could already sense that I was in a place of learning where my success was their success, and I was seen as a person not just a number or a faceless student passing through.

- Danielle Latchman, Midwifery Student